Thank you for choosing RxPertise™ Consulting Software, version 8.0. The following steps will take you through the download process. This guide, along with our Installation Guide, should both be used to install 8.0 on your system.

Before you start: Be sure you have a strong, solid internet connection (i.e. not an “air-card”), since you will be downloading a very large file from our web site.

From our home page at www.rxpertise.com, click on the Downloads button to access the Downloads page. Click on the highlighted link below.

Now available as of 9/15/09: RxPertise™ Version 8.0, available via Download

You may download our entire installation CD contents, including an installation guide, nearly 5 hours of video tutorials, and related training tools. There are three download links, all of which are necessary.

Download Links:

Click here to download/view/print the download guide for this digital download of v8.0 (2MB PDF file). This file will fully explain the process of downloading our full version and how to access all of our training tools. Highly recommended to download/view!

Click here to download/view/print the installation guide once you have downloaded the file (3MB PDF file). This file will walk you through the process of installing and registering your v8.0 license. It is also on the installation file, but is provided here as well as a convenience.

Click here to access the v8.0 full installation image (570 MB ZIP file). Since this is a very large file, be sure to choose the option to Save (not Open) when prompted to download.

You will then be directed to another page to authenticate your product ID:

Here you'll be able to download the entire version 8.0 installation image.

Please enter your RxPertise Product ID (found within RxPertise by going to Help > About) and your email address in the required fields. Then, click Download. You will be prompted to Save the file, which you should select. Choose a location on your computer's hard drive where you can easily access the file, such as your Desktop.

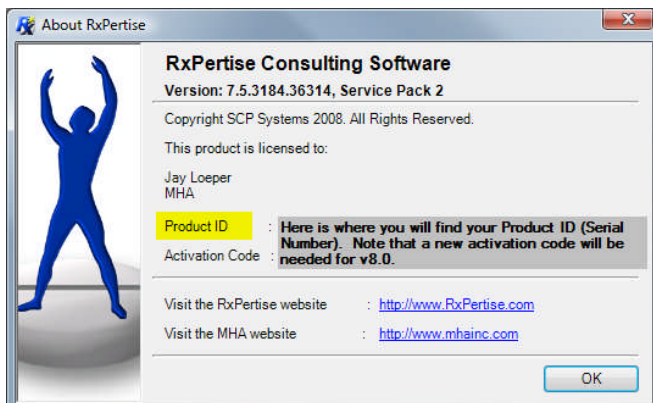

* = Required field

The entire RxPertise v8.0 installation CD, along with the installation guide, video tutorials and all supplementary information, is included in this self-extracting zip file. Please unzip/extract the file to a convenient location on your computer. To simulate inserting the install CD, open the folder where you extracted the files and simply double-click on the autoplay.exe file. That will show you the same install CD image as below.

If you are new to 8.0, your product ID will be provided via email when your order is processed.

If you are an existing 6.x or 7.x user, find your product ID within your current version of RxPertise under Help > About, such as what is shown below:

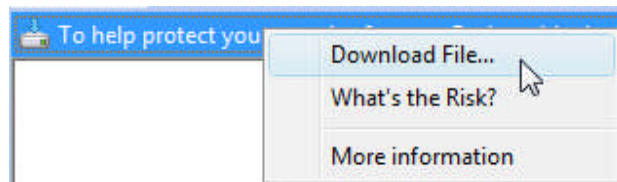

Enter in the necessary information and click Download.

Most browsers will require you to confirm the download of a file, such as exemplified below:

Enable the download option:

Important: ALWAYS choose the option to Save the file to your hard drive. Do NOT choose the option to simply Open the file. This is a very large file, and choosing to open this file that's streaming data to you will likely result in failed downloads.

RxPertise provides you with three download attempts, after which you will need to contact us for assistance.

When the file is downloaded, you will next need to unzip/extract the contents within. Use either the built-in Windows extracting utility or some commercially available product (ex. WinZip) to extract the files. Extract the files to a folder location that's convenient for access. Your Windows Desktop, for instance, may be a good location.

Next, open the folder to locate the autorun.exe file. This file will emulate inserting a CD into your CD drive and seeing the installation menu within. The autorun.exe file will appear like this:

When you double click this file, you will see the RxPertise installation menu:

From this point, please refer to the Installation Guide, which may be found on our web site (Downloads page) or by clicking on the User guides button, and then the Install guide button:
